Forecast for Monday 12 Apr 2021

Weather: Mostly cloudy through the early hours, but any wintry showers becoming confined to the far south of the park. Thicker cloud is likely to bring some more persistent sleet or snow for a time in the morning, then some sunny intervals, with the odd shower in the afternoon. Dry with good clear spells in the evening.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 30%, improving 90% during the morning.

Visibility: Moderate or poor in any wintry showers, and very poor in any more persistent snow, with areas of cloud 300-400m. Becoming very good or excellent by afternoon outside of any showers, with cloud mostly lifting well above the summits, and with distant hills clearly seen.
